TURKEY'S RULER HAS WEAKENED.

Powers' Guardships May Pass Through the Dardanelles.

KHARPUT MISSIONARIES.

It is shown that No Protection Was Given Them Until After the Massacre Occurred.

(Copyright, 1895, by the Associated Press) CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 27.—(Via Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 27.)—The Turkish minister for Foreign Affairs, Tewfik Pasha, called upon Sir Philip Currie, the British Ambassador, to-day and announced that the Porte had decided to issue the firman providing for the passage through the Dardanelles of the extra guardships of Great Britain, Russia, Italy, and Austria, as additional protection needed for the safety of the foreign population here, in view of the recent rioting in the streets of Constantinople. This puts an end to a very dangerous situation, for there is no doubt that the powers would have insisted upon having the extra gunboats here.

Moscow details have just been received here of the burning of the American Mission buildings at Kharput. They show that the Turkish authorities, in spite of the absence of promises of protection for the American missionaries and their property, made by the Porte to United States Minister Terrell and to the American Legation here, and by the Kharput, have failed utterly to guard the Americans. There was no protection offered to them, and after the massacre had actually occurred, and the American Mission Buildings had been burned.

It is estimated that the value of the American property destroyed is $100,000. It consisted of the Girls' College, the Theological Seminary, the chapel and five residential houses. All the buildings were looted by the mob before being set on fire, and all the personal effects of the American missionaries, the libraries, scientific instruments, and other valuable articles, the only small portion of the property has been recovered.

The women missionaries were naturally in great terror while the rioting was going on, and Mrs. Gates, wife of one of the commissioners, was so prostrated with alarm that she gave premature birth to a child, which did not live.

The authorities of Kharput, however, protected the Americans, and the latter fled from their homes to the official quarters. From that time on the Americans were under guard and those who so desired were furnished with escorts to the Black Sea coast.

The failure of the Turkish authorities to afford the Americans protection, and the American missionaries is considered all the more remarkable because it was not upon one or two occasions that the Turkish applied to the Porte in their behalf.

The promises were reiterated upon quite a number of occasions when the United States Minister, though not in full agreement in his representations in behalf of his compatriots.

Some of the American missionaries, including Mrs. H. C. and Mr. and Mrs. Mr. Ellis and Mrs. Bayard, have now arrived here. The others members of the Eastern Turkey Mission at Kharput elected to remain there for the present.

All reports agree in establishing the fact that the Armenians, men, women, and children, were butchered, and that the massacre seemed to be premeditated, but the exact number of those if they did not take part in the slaughter, the Armenians claim, certainly made no effort to escape.

Mr. Terrell, when informed of the destruction of the mission buildings at Kharput, made a strong formal protest to the Porte, and when he had obtained the facts necessary, the data necessary is completed, he will make a formal demand for the immediate payment of the indemnity. In fact, Mr. Terrell was so sure that the indemnity would be assured that the Turkish Government would pay the indemnity required as soon as all the facts in the case were established and the claims of the people who belonged. But it is believed Mr. Terrell will have some difficulty in obtaining the immediate payment of the indemnity sum of money from the Porte, if not for any reason than the wretched condition of the Turkish Government.

Mr. Terrell, in addition, has demanded of the Porte that there be no interference with him, either to and from the American missionaries. In this he has succeeded, and has insisted upon the prompt transmission of his telegrams and the Porte has promised to do no such interference.

The representatives had their attention drawn to the sad condition of the Armenian inhabitants of certain parts of Asia Minor, and what steps were to be taken to do everything possible in the matter. They are now discussing a project for the distribution of relief in Anatolia, rendered immediately necessary by the recent events in that district.

Under the circumstances, drawn here to-day that fresh troubles of a most serious nature have broken out at Marash, where the mutiny of the troops of the advance on Zeitoun has been in progress for the last month past. One report has it that part of the town at Marash had been burned by the rioters.

There is no news from Zeitoun, and this, with the exception of direct news from Marash, is causing most anxiety to do.

Thanks to the firmness of the Powers, the country is still existing and the fear of European intervention is still dominant.

The representative's constant efforts to execute the reforms insisted upon by the Powers, is now apparent at the palace. The representative, in his efforts to convince the Powers of the correctness of his views, has been received in the different capitals, that the situation is not so alarming as represented.

For the present, the report of the situation as viewed by the Turks is to the Turkish Ambassador and Ministers for War, that they are committed to the Government, and the substance of the "news" furnished by the Porte is that, with the exception of the Armenians, all the Christians are content with the paternal regime of the Sultan.

DECISION REACHED AT LAST.

Gideon States That the Defense Was Principally an Attack on the Local Member of the Board.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—Chairman George D. Gideon states to-day that the rumor that the Racing Board had suspended F. J. Titus, Dick Cabanne and C. M. Murphy is true, and so far as the Board is concerned the suspension is permanent and irrevocable.

"The accused were given a fair, I may say an unusually fair, opportunity to establish their innocence of the charge of fixing a race at the St. Louis meet in August last," declared Mr. Gideon. "The case as the accused was continued an unusual length of time to permit the filing of all possible evidence for and against the ride.

"The evidence is on file in my office and is of such a character in the judgment of the board as to lead but one conclusion. The defense was principally an attack on Douglas W. Robert, late of the Post-Dispatch, and other newspaper men, who swore that the accused informed them they had fixed the races.

"The only redress, in my opinion, for the accused is an appeal to the national assembly, which meets in February, most likely in St. Louis. Should Cabanne appeal to the court, he is bound to do well, I do, believe, as he is regarded as he raced and was bound by the rules of the League of American Wheelmen.

NO THIRD TERM.

An Announcement by Mr. Cleveland's Friend Benedict.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—A local paper says that Mr. Benedict, the trusted and intimate friend of President Cleveland, that the latter will not under any circumstances accept a third term of the Presidency.

Mr. Benedict is now employed the confidant of Mr. Cleveland and is so close in his relations with him, that this statement has a semi-official complexion.

Mr. Benedict said that it was certain that "I am positive that he doesn't want to serve a third term; that he could not be persuaded under any circumstances to accept the nomination if it should be tendered to him.

The fire did not reach the front portion of the house, where were Dr. Green's library, art, and books.

"The fire was put out before it reached the back portion of the house, and the damage will not exceed $1,000. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

"It is thought that the fire was caused by a combination of mice and matches in the cupboard.

Charles Tinglehoff, driver of a coal wagon, was run over by his wagon and instantly killed at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Eighteenth and Market streets by his own wagon.

One of the horses attached to the wagon fell, and Tinglehoff, who had the reins wrapped around his arm, was jerked off the wagon and struck on the head, killing him instantly.

Tinglehoff lived at 100 Franklin avenue, and leaves a wife and two small children with no means of support.

PETER McGEOCH SUICIDES.

Brooding Over His Wife's Suit Against Him for Divorce.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 27.—Peter McGeoch, one of Milwaukee's oldest and best-known citizens, shot and fatally injured himself at his home in the suburbs of this city to-day at noon. His wife had only a few days ago sued for divorce, incompatibility of temper, it is known, as stated in the complaint. It is supposed that brooding over this led him to take his life. He was a member of the famous Ward school several years ago made his name a familiar one all over the country. He is survived eight years ago to a Mrs. Libby of Kenwood, a suburb of Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 27.—A speech from Milwaukee says that the recent events caused in society circles by the announcement that Mrs. Peter McGeoch will bring suit for divorce over the ground of incompatibility of temper, it is known, as stated in the complaint. It is supposed that brooding over this led him to take his life. He was a member of the famous Ward school several years ago made his name a familiar one all over the country. Expect Many Heads to Fall.

Wholesale Abolishment of Fast Freight Line Agencies.

Presidents' Agreement.

Over Twenty Agencies in St. Louis and More Than Half of Them Will Be Consolidated or Removed.

The reports as to what the new joint freight commission, formed by the railroad companies, intend to do with the fast freight lines has caused a flutter of excitement in railroad circles in all the cities of the country where agencies have been established. It seems to be pretty well settled that there is going to be a wholesale abolition of the fast freight lines cutting off heads, which, for a time, will cause a large amount of hustling on the part of employees to land right side up.

There are over twenty freight lines in St. Louis, and their agents, with their contractors, clog and other employees, are on the anxious seat awaiting definite results.

Here is a complete list of lines, with their agents:

the abolition of the office of superintendent of cleaning and repairs, superintendent of excavations and bookkeeper, director of buildings and grounds, and the department enlisting a saving of $40,000. They advised a possible reduction of $40,000 in the Contract office, and said the supervisor of Plumbing was an unnecessary $2,700 luxury. It was recommended that the supervisor be given a reduced administration budget, but it was only an administration budget.

There was no gainsaying the value of this report, but its practicability was not tested.

After the report was made public, the committee withheld its report until ten days before the death of the session, and it was not sighted again. This was according to programme. The reform bill was made in time for the third approach of the session, which had been adjourned since called, but the reform Mayor forgot to call attention to these matters.

Every three months bids for supplying the city institutions with meat are let. Last March Charles Compton, the manager of the cover, and the men met of exactly the same quality was demanded the contract price varied. St. Louis School Board got the bid, and the Board of Education got the second. For supplying the House of Refuge across the way McCarthy Bros. received $30,000 per month.

It developed that the contracts had been awarded two days before the advertisement in order to shut off bids from other cities, and that the same concern, Mr. Morris, had the bid. This was a concern. Then, too, H. G. Dent and J. E. Johnson stated that they had been offered $400 by the Board of Education to keep the bid away. Mayor Wabash presented Commissioner Grenner that he would investigate, but did nothing.

It was still within the province of the Charity Commissioners to push the matter, but Mr. Grenner got no encouragement. Wabash told him that he had been offered $400 that the city was being swindled out of $40,000 and given bad meat instead of the bargain.

On March 8 returned prisoners from Quarantine reported that the inmates preferred death to imprisonment in the municipal prison. The inmates were all dead. Death of the past victims were buried in short coffins and their limbs broken to make fit.

Three weeks later the Charity Commissioners reported that terrible cruelties were being committed at the Work-house. They stated that the inmates were compelled to unbind their arms, fasten them to a rope and lifting them off the ground by means of a rope over a pulley in the ceiling.

Both these outrages on humanity have gone unnoticed.

The next state came next. It was an amusing attempt to make oil and water mix. For once the Silks and Hoodlums found themselves basking in the same political sun. Both the oil and water men, oil or no oil or none, neither were satisfied. There were some men on the slate who were of known respectability, there were others who were not. Some of the oil men were decidedly shady. Some of these men have asserted their unpleasent personalities in the hope that they will become factors in a reform administration.

Isaac S. Bristol, Superintendent of the House of Refuge, has made himself known to the Catholic community by his treatment of Catholic inmates of his institution.

Mr. Bristol was the keeper of a shabby con- house before he got to be a Way-side striker. He was a reviser of registration last spring and was accused in the court of being a "black sheep." He was exonerated, but he was not. Robert Wayne, who lost their roofs and a barn because of the storm, was fortunately unoccupied, was carried three blocks by the wind.

Oil and warmer weather are promised by the weather clerk in St. Louis for Wednesday night and Thursday.

A few weeks ago it was proven by the testimony of Dr. Guz Krueger that the brutality of Guard Gus Krueger was responsible for the death of prisoner Thos. McNamee. INDIANAPOLIS.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 27.—The storm of Monday night was very disastrous in many points in this State. At Elwood was especially severe. The casting-hall and several furnaces were destroyed, and the factory was demolished, loss of $40,000. Two men were dangerously hurt and one was out of work.

At Frankton demolition of the new gas pumping station of the Indianapolis Gas Co., unroofed the new Clyde wind-giant and destroyed two business houses and seven dwellings.

At Alexandria the sheet mill and the steel works were unroofed and the main part of the machinery was destroyed. The power block was unrooted and extensive damages done to the American plate-glass factory.

At Anderson the colored United Church, a new building, was completely demolished. The covered bridge over the Mississinewa, at Newmarket, was blown down in the third story of the bridge torn down. Jas. Howard was seriously injured by the fall of a building falling on him.

The hotel buildings were furnished, were not asked to go to his springing fund.

On the following day we were told that Mr. Ridgeley's name was written in Filley's black book.

The new City Hall, which began under the No man administration, but was mighty in the latter days of reform.

A recently incompetent job of fire-proofing was performed by the State Board of Public Improvements. There were other things so many that Councilman Heckel tried to drown himself in the community as a "Lexicon" article. His name in the new City Hall stenciled to the bottom. After running up a stenographer's bill of $200,000, he was sent to the Committee called a half. The fact that Heppican contractors might become involved in this investigation were pushed put to end to the investigation.

Now, behind a mask of opposition to President McMath of the P. F. I. the Republicans are taking the responsibility of finishing a bungling job on a Democratic official.

But the present efforts to fix the responsibility on them. The building is full of holes, and as such is a good shibboleth of the reformers.

The prospect for clearing up in all the unsightly wires are still overhead, street car franchises are still presented to corporations, the railroad committee of the House of Delegates held up bills as in days of yore, the new criminal and circuit judges are still to be appointed.

What have the party and the people to be thankful for to-morrow?

AT SEA IN A LONGBOAT.

Tug Searching for the Crew of a Lost American Ship.

KILRUSH, Ireland, Nov. 27.—A tug has gone in search of the missing longboat containing eleven men, believed to belong to the American ship Belle O'Brien, Capt. Colley, from San Francisco for Queenstown, Ireland, to have founded on the coast of Ireland.

The boat was sighted off Loop Head and was driven seaward by adverse winds. Six survivors of the Belle O'Brien, who had reached Killybegs on Saturday morning, it is hoped that Capt. Colley and his crew are safe. The boat, which has been sighted, and that the tug will succeed in recovering it.

IN CHICAGO'S WILDS.

Passengers Snowbound in the City's Desolate Suburbs.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 27.—During the storm Monday night passengers on the Calumet Electric Street Railroad were snowbound in desolate portion of the city and some of them were compelled to remain all night in the cars, being unable to reach their homes in South Chicago. About 12 o'clock Tuesday morning the avenue was stalled at Sixty-seventh street at 10 o'clock last night and remained so for about four hours. The cars, in addition to the motormen and conductor on board, a car of the Seventy-first street line shared a similar fate near Sixty-third street, as did another at South Chicago avenue and Ninety-first street, and another at Sixty-seventh street. Most passengers who sought the light aboard when the cars were first stalled they carried the usual number of passengers, but as the hours passed and indications of safety were given the majority of the passengers left the cars and continued the remainder of the journey on foot. Some of the passengers, however, refused to leave the cars, preferring to spend the night in them to facing the storm.

THE ENGINEER FELL DEAD.

Travelled 7,000 Miles From New York by Way of California.

SOME EFFECTS OF THE STORM.

Most Damage to Property Resulted in Indiana, Where the Wind Had the Force of a Midsummer Cyclone.

The telegraphic service of the country is still crippled as a result of Monday night's storm.

For a time yesterday, last night and today news from New York travelled 7,000 miles to reach St. Louis. It went from New York to Montreal, and along the Canadian Pacific through Winnipeg and Vancouver to San Francisco. Then it was telegraphed down to the Needles in Southern California, and east to Albuquerque, Kansas City, and west to St. Louis.

New connections were secured all day, and messages from all over the country westward where the storm extended, were sent to the storm area.

Dispatches show that it did a vast amount of damage in the Western States, aside from the Nebraskas.

It was still within the province of the Charity Commissioners to push the matter, but Mr. Grenner got no encouragement.

Charles Newell's Life Went Out While the Ferry Was Crossing the River.

While the ferryboat D. Frederick Hill was plying across the Mississippi River, between East St. Louis and Carondelet, Tuesday evening, Charles Newell, the engineer, fell dead at his post.

When the boat reached the Illinois side, the engineer started the engines in response to the signal from the pilot-house, and then rowed in an oar. Before the boat reached the opposite shore, his body was winged. Several parties on board witnessed his falling, but it was not until Capt. Zeller, who had been steering the boat, heard the shout that the body had fallen into the river.

PRESIDENT MCNATH'S DUTY.

Now that President McMath has begun to unbosom himself, he should frankly tell the public all he knows about the underworld work in connection with the City Hall plans, both before and since their adoption, and all he knows about the work of the contractors. He has already told so much that he is sure to be suspected of trying to cover somebody's tracks if he fails to make a complete disclosure.

At this time nobody believes that Mr. McMath has been guilty of anything worse than negligence. Of that he has certainly been guilty. The law devolves upon him responsibility for the work of construction, and in such cases responsibility involves close personal supervision of the work that is being done. His own testimony and statements show that Mr. McMath has not given to the work this close supervision. To that extent he is blame.

But enough has already been revealed to show that there has been something much worse than negligence in connection with the plans and construction of the new City Hall. There has been downright robbery and robbery. If he will, Mr. McMath can add greatly in ferreting out the guilty parties. This he owes to himself and to the city to do.

UNEQUAL POST-OFFICE SALARIES.

The appeal of the Postal Clerks, through their National Association, for legislation making salaries in the Post-office Department more equal and in accordance with services rendered is deserving of consideration. The postal clerks feel that they are not paid well enough, comparing their salaries with those of men in other branches of the service whose duties are no more onerous.

There is no reason why the clerks should not be paid salaries as high as the carriers get. While it is true that the carrier must face all weathers, his work is wholesome and conducive to long life. The work of the postal clerk, especially in buildings so unsanitary as most government buildings are, is irksome and unhealthy. Working largely by artificial light and in a foul atmosphere, his vocation is in the long run less desirable than that of the carrier.

The reclassification would even things up. It would open up opportunities for quicker advancement in the clerical service of the department. It should be made in the interest of contentment and efficiency.

THE LOGIC OF "CHICKEN."

City Counselor Marshall is in benefaction to city officials caught violating the law, or availing themselves of "established custom" in the matter of perquisites. When the law and the ordinances fail to provide for loot, the City Counselor goes behind the law and the ordinances and discovers what he assumes to be the "intention" of the law-makers and gives the law-breakers the benefit of the intention.

He has surpassed himself in this respect in the "opinion" furnished him when Jailer Wagner was caught eating "chicken" which was charged to the city as "beef." Mr. Marshall examined the ordinances and could find nothing in them entitling the Jailer to food at the expense of the city. It is his "belief," however, that although the law does not say so, "the spirit of the law is that he should be provided with food." Why? Because the Jailer is given a "small salary," namely, $1,500 a year, and the failure to provide in the ordinances for furnishing him with food "must have been an oversight."

Archbishop Whately, who proved in strict accordance with the forms of logic that no such man as Napoleon Bonaparte ever existed, isn't a circumstance to City Counselor Marshall.

That the city law-makers made no provision for supplying the Jailer with food at the city's expense proves to Mr. Marshall that they intended to do so and forthwith by an "opinion" converts their assumed intention into law. Then, having found that they intended to do what they did not do, he reasons that if the Jailer was entitled to beef at the expense of the city, he was also entitled to chicken.

This is why we say that City Counselor Marshall is a benefactor to the law-breakers and perquisite-hunters.

ED KING OF THE GRIDIRON.

Thorne, Yale's Captain, Is the Idol of Foot Ball Enthusiasts.

HE HAS A FINE RECORD

And Is Very Popular With His Associates—This Is His Last Year at College—Gridiron Gossip.

Samuel Brinckerhoff Thorne of the Yale foot ball team has been crowned the foot ball king of 1895.

His wonderful playing Saturday practically defeated Princeton and has made him the equal of such famous players as Wally Ladd, Everett Lake, Louis Bliss, "Bull" Moxon, and Frank Butterworth. His record this season completely overshadows that of all the other players, as did the playing of Butterworth last year.

Thorne's record at Yale has been a good one. Four years ago he entered the college and since then has developed into the best half back on the gridiron to-day. This is his last year at Yale and he ended his career as a college foot ball player

S. R. THORNE, CAPTAIN OF YALE'S TEAM.

Saturday. He has gone through the list of secret society honors at Yale and now wears the coveted skull and cross bone pin. His general popularity and the position of his class in the university have won him a place in New York, has won for him a host of social honors in his class.

Brinckerhoff Thorne, as he is familiarly known, is a modest, unostentatious young man and is a leader of the "Yale Democracy" of young men who live modestly and are ambitious but respected for their many qualities.

Last fall back Edgar N. Wrightington of the Harvard team has been elected Captain and is the captain of the team of champions on the gridiron in 1895.

Frank T. Murphy of Junction City, Kan., will probably be elected Captain of the Yale team for next year. He is one of the best all-around players on the team.

Gridiron Gossip.

The Marquette (O.) College team will play the Ohio State College eleven at Cincinnati to-morrow.

A crowd of enthusiasts will leave for Kansas City to witness the big foot ball game between the Missouri and Kansas teams to-morrow. A special train will be run from Columbia.

Few big enthusiasts deplore the fact that the Yale and Pennsylvanians will not meet this year and definitely settle the college championship. They are looking forward to a meeting between the teams next year, and a truce may soon be patched up between the colleges.

Yale has turned out a better team this year, but as H. P. and W. R. Cross, A. N. Jerrems, C. E. Witte and B. Thorne will start out to win it will be hard to beat them.

Jesse Letton will probably succeed Jerrems, and Hammond and Benjamin with promising players, may make a strong team for next year.

It will be difficult to find substitutes for the Cross boys.

The Princeton team, with the exception of Cap. Cross, will graduate in the spring, will remain intact. Princeton will play Harvard and Yale next year, but a contest with Cornell is more imminent.

Tigers gained good experience this year and should prove formidable opponents on the gridiron in 1896.

It is said that a breach has been caused between Harvard and Pennsylvania, because Brooke was allowed to play with the latter team after he had given up his eligibility.

The Quakers management deny having received the protest and insisted on Brooks being in the game. Should Harvard refuse, Princeton will be the team the Quakers only chance would be for a game with the Cross boys.

To-morrow Pennsylvania and Cornell will meet on the gridiron at Philadelphia, and this will conclude the big college games in the East. Cornell players are in fine condition and will give the Quakers a lively tussle. The Quakers are sore from the scrimmages with Harvard on Saturday, but they will rely on Brooks's wonderful kicking ability to win the game for them.

The receipts of the Yale-Princeton game in New Haven were $1,000. The cost of rental of the Manhattan field was $2,000, and other expenses $2,000, leaving a net profit of $2,000 for the colleges, and each team receives $1,000. The money will be turned over to the trustees and leave a good surplus in their treasury.

The game between the Christian Brothers College and Rainwater Rifles foot ball teams at the West End grounds to-morrow afternoon will be a good shooting event. Both teams are in good condition and the grounds are being put into the best possible shape for the game.

Mrs. Bob Fitzsimmons presented her pugilistic husband with a bouncing baby boy, who is said to have a long reach like his father. The youngster was born at Houston Texas, last night, and both mother and child are in excellent condition. The second son. He has a 6 or 7-year-old boy named Charlie by his first wife, who was divorced in 1888 and never married to his present brother-in-law and mother Julian. The present Mrs. Fitzsimmons was

HIS PARENTS OBJECTED.

The Reason Billy Douglass Will Not Be with the Browns.

Billy Douglass, the promising Wallsville (Mo.) ball player, who was to have been with the Browns next season, has refused to go with them. His parents and relatives objected to him becoming a regular professional. His plans now are to manage himself in the proposed Missouri-Texas League to include Hannibal, Mexico, Webb City, and Webb City. Douglass hopes to represent the state amateur team in the State at Moeberry. The organization of the proposed interstate league will furnish a field for the talents of the host of promising St. Louis amateurs.

CHAMPION JOE PATCHEN.

Bob Aull Thinks He Will Eclipse Germany and Robert J. in 1896.

Col. Bob Aull of St. Louis judged the Joe Patchen-John R. Gentry-Robert J. racing race at Indianapolis in 1894, and was surprised that Patchen did not become the acknowledged champion his season. Col. Aull is now racing in the same year, and is officiated as Jockey to most of the summer Grand Prix Grounds, but he generally found himself well posted concerning the Joe Patchen race.

"Joe Patchen is a big strong-looking horse," said Col. Aull, "and as his owner has a large fortune, I don't care if he wins or loses." Col. Gentry, who is known as the "King of the Horsemen," is also a small, thin, wiry fellow, but his great rivals are small in stature, and both are unsound. John R. Gentry became a jockey to Patchen in 1894, but he generally found himself well posted concerning the Joe Patchen race.

THE ADMIRAL'S ADVICE.

How a Stout Old Sea Fighter Defended His Wooden Ships.

Old Admiral Farragut said that the best defense against an un-directed arrow fire that will silence the fort. He believed in protecting his ships, but he called for success upon good guns and brave men. Battle was won with them, not with arms.

Now that the season is changing it is unnecessary to recommend more protection for your body in the shape of clothing. But no fabric we wear will keep out the autumn colds that fasten themselves upon the system so rapidly and stick so long. Doubtless you know people who, although slightly clad, never seem to take cold; while others cough and sneeze all the time. The wrapping, the power of the first class, the Farragut's advice are forgotten from within. They have now stood as whiplash and blood that leaps with the irrepressible vigor of perfect health.

Maybe they were born so, but in most instances this condition results from a similar cause of a weakly organism at the first appearance of the world. The most popular stimulant for medicinal and family use is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Experience has shown how completely by stirring the lagging circulation of the system by concoction, and so, too, the system to get rid of a cold.

If what the scientist says is true, this is an important thing to remember, that people with a bad cold do not care for food. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has been a standard winter medicine. Experiments have shown that its chief value lies in its tonic qualities. Insist on having Duffy's.

SILVER AND GOLD.

Resolutions Presented to the Transmississippi Commercial Congress.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 27.—At yesterday's session of the Transmississippi Congress R. W. Richardson of Omaha introduced a resolution unanimously opposed to a free silver proposition previously offered by Gov. Prince. It was:

"The Transmississippi Commercial Congress, at its eighth session, respectfully urges to the Congress of the United States: Recognizing the wisdom of the great commercial nations of the world in making silver a standard of value, we demand the maintenance of that standard, and insist that the measure of free silver proposed by the administration to the House of Representatives is not sufficient and reasonably stable for the measure and standard of value, we demand the average free silver enthusiasts. We are opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and to the independent minting of silver by the individual states, because of the international agreement, because we believe the result of such action would make silver more abundant, and so dropping out of favor from the class with the leading commercial nations of the world."

SHERMAN'S BOOK.

Interview With Mr. Depew on the Senator's Charges.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Chauncey Depew has been interviewed on the subject of Senator Sherman's book. He says: "Senator Sherman's book, especially the part relating to the Republican National Convention of 1888 naturally evokes a great deal of criticism. The time, nearly six years ago, when the convention was held, always attends exciting events in the convention, which account for the discrepancies in the narrative." He adds: "I am sorry to say, when since the publication of the book and Senator Sherman's interview upon it have contributed the most to our citizens who purchased one of those lovely men's suits and overcoats at $7.50, as good as $12.50 and $15 garments elsewhere. GLOBE, N. W. Cor. Seventh and Franklin ave.

He Never Cares to Wander From His Own Fireside.
The bright side of life was emphatically suggested by one of our citizens who purchased one of those lovely men's suits and overcoats at $7.50, as good as $12.50 and $15 garments elsewhere. GLOBE, N. W. Cor. Seventh and Franklin ave.

The body was discovered by a man who had been working on the schoolhouse, which was situated outside of the city. After the adjournment of a convention the air is always full of rumors of this kind, and the public are often with such vigor and so circumstantially made that the thing seems exceedingly plausible.

But this rarely if ever are true. There are always a few who are willing to promises made by the representatives of candidates to substantiate the charge of corruption, but the corporation is certainly a very serious charge that one candidate purchased delegates, thereby injuring and taking away from the favorite of another candidate.

REWARD FOR Mississippi Lynchers.
JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 27.—Gov. Stone has issued a reward of $200 for an audience of about two thousand people at his first appearance as a public lecturer in this city last night. The audience consisted mainly of old-line Democrats, who entertained Senator Hill during the day. The lecture, which occupied three hours, was delivered on the subject of "Liberty." Its underlying idea being that the safest kind of liberty and government was that which did not interfere with the individual rights of personal customs and habits. It was an elaborate study of the adoration of titles which was growing in certain quarters of America and regretted the loss of the title of "Fellow," which was given to him by his friends.
